The trenty ea limitation of navies, chief work of the Washington conference, after in all. an laconsequential debate, was ratised on Wednesday by a vote of 74 to 1. Mr. France defended his lonely negative vote by contending that the United States should continue building the largest pavy in the world notil all other nations had shown their willingness to abotish war totally. Of the other irreconcilaides, Itorah expisined that he favored the treaty because it was a step toward the goal at which he had been slining for minny years, namely, complete disarmament, and that he believed this agreement was as much as the international conference was able to accomplish John. son of Catitornia did not disguise his dialike for the pact, especially its Pacitic fortifications clause, but he voted for ratification on the assurance of the navy general board that the l'nited States would not give up anything that is strategically vital. King of Utah, though accepting the treaty, thought would have small effect he reduc-Ing naval expenditures, predicting that huge sums now would be spent on aircraft and submarines,

Immediately after the vote of ratification the senate took up the treaty prohibiting the use of poison gas and restricting the use of submarines in warfare and accepted it manimously. Before casting his vote Senator Wadsworth of New York, chairman of the military affairs committee, expressed the opinion that in the next war this treaty would not be worth the paper It was written on.

"For my own part," said Senator Wadaworth, "I shall he very much discouraged if the United States army abould stop trying to perfect gas masks because of this treaty. We don't dare stop. And the only way we can perfect gas manks is to test them with the kind of gases which we the sensational developments: may trave to combat. We might as well look the facts in the face."

Grest Britain, it will in fact be scurce-Iv equal to that of Japan if the paval appropriations subcommittee of the house has its way. That body, under the leadership of Representative l'at Kelley of Michigan, is determined to the naval enlisted personnel to 66,000, which is 25,000 less than the number necessary according to the estimates of the department's experts, and which would force out of commission many cruft that are positively needed. It is not likely, however, that this crippling program will succeed, because the "ldg may" men of the house are prepared to combat it, the majority lenders in the senute declare they will not stand for it, and President Harding probably would veto the appropriation Idll If it came up to him In that shape, When the bill is reported to the house this week, according to the plan, itogers of Mussichusetts will offer an amendment placing the minimum strength at 90,000. Cama as a Surprise.

The sweeping order of the President came us a dramatle surprise, but it was unde only after a thorough investigation on the part of government agents over a period of many months.

Frequent thefts are said to have accurred recently at the bureau and general inefficiency in its conduct for some time in said to have brought forth the executive order.

The appearance in many sections of the country of duplicate government bonds and securities, which are said not to be forgeries, has kept the secret service busy ruuning down those responsible.

While no charges of criminality against the dismissed executives have yet been preferred, it was stated by officials that experts will begin an accounting of every item on the books. I'mon the result of this investigation will depend the future action of the government, it was said.

The ilenth of Charles, former Emperor of Austria and King of Hungary, has awakened laterest in Europe and raised some problems of importrance. His exile la the Madelra Islands was shared by his wife, the Empress Zitu, but the sentence did not include her and the act was one of voluntary devotion. She is regarded as ambitious and likely to watch every opportunity to advance the interest of her son, Francis Joseph Otto. The ex-emperor died of pneumonia and in his last hours he protested that he died as a sacrifice for his people. It was generally felt that Charles would have made a good ruler ia ordinary times but his fortifues were too closely tied up with those of Germany to enable him to show what he might have done. The efforts to regain the throne were largely the work of his ambitious wife.

As the time for the Genoa Conference draws near the Interest increases. Perhaps the leading question will be that of Russia. It is believed that Italy and England are favorable to a recognition of the Soviet Regime on conditions. France on the other hand is expected to stand for recognition only when pledges for fulfilmeat of money obligations are fully made. Russia has borrowed a large amount from France during the war and even before. Lloyd George expects to attend and will hardly venture to favor recognition unless he has approval of the House of Commoas. He has asked for a vote of confidence which probably means an endorsement of his purposes at the convention. These frequent requests for votes of confidence are rather a new thing in England. The initiative is generally taken by the House itself and a minister is regarded as holding the confidence until a voto to the contrary is taken.

CHAPTER X.

thansey kept very few things from Fred Mitchell, and usually his confidences were immediate upon the occuslon of them; but allowed several weeks to clause before sketching for his roommute the outlines of this adveidage.

"time thing that was kind o' funny about it. Fred," he said, "I didn't know what to call her."

Mr. Mitchell, stretched upon the window seat in their "study," and looking out over the town street below and the entagors beyond the street, had adready thought it metful to ambush his profound amusement by turning upon like side, so that his face was toward the wholew and away from his companion "What dld you want to call her?" he inquired in a serious volce, "Names?"

"No. You know what I mean. I For a while they went slowly to mean I had to keep calling her 'you'; gether, not speaking, and without des. and that gets kind of freaky when tination, though tharasey vaguely took you're talkin' to anybody a good while from me, for instance, or down at the river, or somewhere, and I'd want to start sayla' something to her, you know, why, I wouldn't know how to get started exactly, without callin' her something. A person doesn't want to he always startin' off with 'See here,' or things like that."

"I don't see why you let it trouble you," said Fred. "From how you've always talked about her, you had a perfectly handy way to start off with anything you wanted to say to her." "What with?"

"Why didn't you just say, 'Oh, you Teacher's Pet!' That would-"

"Get out! What I mean is, she called me 'flamsey' without any bother; it seems funny i got atumped every time I started to say 'Bora.' Some way I couldn't land it, and it certuinly would 'a' sounded crazy to call her 'Miss Yocum' ufter aittin' in the same room with her every day from the buly chiss clear on up through the end of high school. That would 'a' made me out an idlot!"

"What did you call her?" Fred asked.

"Just nothin' at all. I started to call her something or other a hundred times, I guess, and then I'd balk. I'd get all ready, and klud of make a sort of a sound, and then I'd have to quit." "She may have thought you had .

what she was thinkin' about, "Itut if it imdn't been for that," Fred suggested, "you mean she'd have certainly paid more attention to who was sitting on the bench with her?"

"Get out! You know how It was Everybody those few days thought we were goin' to have war, and she was just sure of it, and it upset her. Of course most people were a lot more upset by what those Dutchmen did to the Lusitania ihan by the idea of war; and she seemed to feel as broken up as anybody could be about the Lusitanie, but what got her the worst was the notion of her country wantin' to fight, she said. She really was upset, teo, Fred; there wasn't no puttin' on

"I'm not laughing," said Fred, but he did not prove it by turning so that his face could be seen. "What did she 4n y ?"

"Oh, she didn't sny sich an awful lot. She sald one kind of funny thing though; she said she was sorry she couldn't quite control herself, but If anylooly lind to see her cry she minded jess because it was an old schoolmate. What struck me so kind of fining about that Is-why, it looks as If she never knew the way I alwaya hated her so " "Yes," said Fred, "It wasn't flat-

> "What did you sny?" what's the use? She's got that in her her-well, her crying and everything. hend. Besides, how are you goln' to argin about a thing with a person that's crying about it? I rell you, Fred, I guess we got to admit, after all that ole girl certainly must have a lot of heart about her, onyway. There may not be much fun to her-though of course I wouldn't know hardly any way to tell about that but there confidn't be hardly any doubt she's got a lot of feeling. Well, and then she went on and sald obl men made wars, lear didn't tight; they left the fighting to the love, and the suffering to the hoys' mothers,'

"Ves?" Fred exclaimed, and upon that he turned, free of mirth for the moment. "That's the woman of it, I guess. Send the old men to do the fighting'. For the matter of that, 1 guess my father'd atout a thousand times rather go bimself than see ure and my brothers go; but l'ather's so fut he can't stoop! You got to be able to stoop to dig a trench, I guess' Well, suppose we sent our old men up against those Dutchmen; the Dutchmen would just kill the old nien, and then come after the boys anyway, and the boys wouldn't be ready, and they'd get killed too; and then there wouldn't be anybody for the Dutchmen and that'd he one fine world, wouldn't It!"

"Yes," sald Rumsey, "Course I thought of that."

"Did you tell her?" "No."

"What did you say?"

"Nothin'. I couldn't get started anyway, but, besides, what was the use? But she didn't want the old men to go; she dbin't want anybody to go "

"What did she want the country to do?" Fred asked, Impatiently.

"Just what it has been doln' Just let things simmer down, and poke along, and let them do what they like to us."

"I guess so!" said Fred. "Then, afterwhile, when they got some free time on their hands, they'll come over and make it really interesting for us heenise they know we won't do anything but talk. Yes, I guess the way things are settling down ought to suit Horn. There Isn't goln' to be any War.

"She was pretty sure there was, though," Ramsey sald, thoughtfully,

"Oh, of course she was then.

all thought so those few days." "No. She said she thought it prob'ty wouldn't come right away, but now it was almost sure to come sometime. She said our telegrams and all the talk and so much feeling and everything showed her that the war thought that was always in people somewhere had been stirred up so it would go on and on. She said she knew from the way she felt herself about the Lushania that a feeling like that in her would never be absolutely wiped out as long as she lived. But she said her other feeling about the harrildeness of war thight her to keep the first feeling from breaking out, but with other people it wouldn't; and even if war didn't break out right then, it would always be ready to, all over the country, and sometime it would, though she was goln' to do her share to tight it, herself, as long as she could stand. She asked me wouldn't I be one of the ones to help her."

He punsed, and after a moment Fred asked, "Well? What dld you say to that?"

"Nothin'. I started to, int-" Again Fred thought it tactful to turn and look out the windaw, while the agitation of his shoulders betrayed him.

"Go on and laugh! Well, so we stayed there quite a while, but before we left she got kind of more like everyday, you know, the way people do. It was half-past nine when we walked back to town, and I was commencen' to feel kind of hungry, so I asked her if she wasn't, and she sort of laughed and seemed to be ashamed of it, as if it was a disgrace or something, but she said she guessed size was; so I left her by that hedge of illacs neer the observatory and went on over to

"What did you say then?"

"Noth - Oh, shut up" So then she skipped out to her Dorin, and I came on lome.

"When did you see her next, Itam-

"I haven't seen her next," said Rignsey. "I haven't seen her at all not to sjock to I saw her on Main street twice since then, but both times she was with some other girls, and they were across the street, and I couldn't tel if she was lookin' at me-I kind of the ight not -- I thought it might look some of unity to low to her if, she wasn't, so I didn't "

HUMAN NATURE GREAT FACTOR

INTERNATIONAL TREATIES AND PACTS REALLY OF SECOND. ARY IMPORTANCE.

WORLD NEEDS QUIET SLEEP

Only Lasting Cure for the Ills That Havs Ever Followed in the Wake of War-Action of Congressional Appropriation Committee Causes Alarm.

By EDWARD B. CLARK

Washington.- It seemingly can be taken for granted that the treatles proposed by the recent international conference in Washington will go into effect. Will the world, after the agreements formally have been sanctioned wherever it is necessary to sanction them, be the same old world?

Washington officials are like other people, and though the endeavor is to do something to keep war forever from the doorstep, there are those of the officials who are saying that human nature still is human nature, and that dependence must be placed upon its restraint as much as mon any trentles looking to "idacidity, concord and beare,

The United States is going to have ogreements, treatles, alliances, or whatever you choose to call them, with other great nations, and war no longer is to be feared, at least so some good folk seem to think. The people of the United States, and the people of other countries, too, for that matter, are willing apparently in masses of majorities to graspe at anything which will promise pence and which will prevent a rejetition of the much worse than untoward things that happened between August 1, 1914. and November 11, 1918.

Perhaps it ought not to be written at a time when the hopes of the people seem to be tirmly fixed that peace ls to settle down for keeps mon the world, but nevertheless it must be said that there are identy of seasoned ones in Washington who believe that huninn nature rither than four-power, five-power, or even ten-power parts is to determine affairs in the future, as It has determined them in the past. These skeptles, if you so choose to call them, say thut you cannot legislate acrimonles ont of the world affairs, nor can you legislate today against the human nature which will be the same tomorrow and the day after tomorrow as it is this day and as it was vesterday.

There are government officials and members of congress of both partles who believe that the solving of the economic problems of the world will be a harder task than that of solving, or seemingly solving, its war problems. Washington recognizes the fact that there is an instability among the peoples which comes from something other than the economic disturbances which naturally have grown ont of the war. There is a restlessness everywhere und it is particularly evident among men who served in whitever army, but it is also evident among the peoides who never suw the front line, and who never were found back of the lines. The whole world seems to be nervous and unable properly to get to work. The diplomatic and leg-Islative doctors say that the world needs a natural sleep, one not produced by a sedutive and which will leave no hendache in its wake.

A senator said the other day that the world has been disturbed many times before, but that it always has come back to its polse. It reminds one of the nuclent story of the woman who asked if it was going to rain, and received the answer "It always has." Committee's Action Alarms.

Recently an approprintlen committee of congress made what was a seeming attempt to fix a policy for the government rather than simply to make a recommendation for an appropriation to carry out a policy already fixed by the government.

it is clurged in Washington that this act of the appropriation committee takes that body far out of the tield of its rights, its privileges and common sense. This charge is made both by Democrats and by Republicans, who see danger in what the committee hus done.

The appropriation committee of the house virtually said it would recommend that only a small amount of money should be allowed for the army of the United States. It can be seen at once what this will mean if it shall be carried through to its conclusion. It means that the government, through the military committees of the house and senate, can not fix the size of the army or of the mayy in accordance with thoughts on safety for our institutions, but necessarily will be compelled to keep the army forces down within the pay limits made possible by the sum allowed by the appropriations committee.

Here is the way that it has been put hy some of the members who think that the appropriations committee's singgested plan is dangerous and Chenna :

"If he a great city a riot should hold its sway for four or tive months, but finally after great destruction of property the rioters should say, 'We will go good,' would it be wisdom for the city, simply on the word of lifetime agents of destruction, instantly to cut its police force below the limits of ordinary safety?"

In the jost we love had foreign ene inles at 150 course we may have their In the future. There is no doubt at all that we have demestic enemies with us at all times. Description still lms its infragres and their prenchings are heard and their writings are read. The fight to can down the army, in n Wny, has been as hard and as hot as some of the fights in the Argonne ferest. The administration seemingly believes that the men who hold the morely lorgs in congress are willing to out their country in danger in order to save a few dollars. There is anwher side than that of money to this matter, as it affects the regular army.

Question to Be Considered.

Can the United States, It is asked, afford to be wholly ungrateful to the men who have given their country their life's service? Today there is nurest in the regular army because of the apparent willingness of congress to take away from the men of years of service their means of livelihood. Admittedly, if the good of the people shall demond the dismissal of some of its servants, well and good, last what of a condition which involves the dismissal of the faithful and us a compunton net the loss of safety for our institutions?

Your correspondent knows something personally alout the conditions today in the regular army. He has been a regular and he has been an emergency officer. Service men have jost neart. They do not know whut is going to impose to them and their families. They are trained to serve their country along certain lines and new they fear that their country is going to turn them udrift without so ameliaes a straw of safety. Today there is an actual attempt being made to force willing and able men out of the army. Soldiers who shysically and mentally are capable of venrs of work are being ordered before examining boards of doctors, in the hope-yes, in the hope-that the examiners will be able to find some little thing physically wrong with them which will give the government an excuse for dismissing the faithful ones.

Crowds Visit Lincoln Memorial.

Visitors of the springtime are heginning to come to Washington In crowds. Almost the first place which they visit is the Lincoln memorial, within which stately laidling is the sented statue of the war-time President.

John Royle O'Reilly once wrote a poem called "The Statues in the In a sense it described the Bleek." emotions of the man who was gazing ujon ii block of murble and thinking mon the possibilities in the way of lifelike impersonations which could he brought by the chisel of the sculptor from it cold stone. The statue of Lincoln is heroic in The face is wonderful. This NIZE. umsteridece cume from a block of stone. I made some little inquiry ao to the methods of sculptors who were to make statues of men whom they had never seen in life. The face, and in a way the ligure, is known to the sculptor from photographic or painting reproduction, but almost niways it necessary to get some living man to pose as the subject in order to get the living effect. After looking at the statue of Lincoln a day or two ago I went to Dupont circle, where recently there was a statue of Admiral Dupont, a statue which was taken down because it in not thought to be a properly artistic representation of the sailor. Great Sculptor's Methods.

By a curious coincidence, almost immediately after looking on the Dupont circle fountain I met a man whom I had known for some years, Arthur G. Fuller of Groton, Mass. Mr. Fuller had known the sculptor, French, virtuully all his life. He told me some things concerning the labors of this man whose work is known throughout the country which to nie were interesting, and may not prove to be uninteresting to others.

It was French who did "The Minute Man," which stands at Concord bridge. the rude bridge "which arched the flood where once the embattled farmer stend." The Minnte Man is a statue of extreme simplicity, but full of sigultiguage and of action. It represents a young farmer with one fund apon the plow while the other hand holds n ritte. He is looking for off und ilstening for the cull to duty.

Memorial hall, so culled, in the capitol, the old rull of representatives, has in it many atrocities. Each state of the Union has the right to place in this full statues of two of its great chilzens. The states not always have chosen well. Sometimes legislature. have been moved by political considerations or considerations even less worthy when choosing men to be represented by memorials in the cupitot of the United States. There are some statues in Memorial hall of men of whom the average person never heard, und some of these statues are an abomination to the eye of any one who has the slightest knowledge of what art should be.

tine of South Caroling's memorial statues in the half is that of John C. Culhoun, a great man, no matter how some people may view his political convictions. When the time came to unveil this statue the South Curolina representatives asked Henry Cubot Lodge of Mussachusetts to deliver one of the uddresses. Mr. Lodge did so, and having in mind the general character of most of the other statues in Memorial bull, he framed in his speech a phrase which will live, Speaking of the great Calhaun and of the emplacing of the statue in Memoria hall, the Massachusetts senator sald: "He will stand there elbowed by the temperarily notorious and the illustrious obscure."

A Definition of Democracy

The New York American of Mnrch contained the statement that democracy, progressing in many other countries, is in retrent in the United States. "Why," it asks, "are our politics untrustworthy and inefficient, our captains of industry autocratic nad our methods confused and uniaspired?" The answer is: "Hecause the soul of America lacks a lode star. We need to guide us, a spiritual concept of what dealocracy is. Nothing less can enkindle our emotions, cohere our thlaking and direct effectively our restimulated energies." Discussion is invited upon a definition of democracy which shall meet America's aced, and the following definition, "thought out by Dr. Charles Fleischer tweaty years ago and since subjected successfully to many tests," is forthwith offered: "Democracy is the organization of Society on the basis of respect for the individual."

It is not so much the case of democracy being la retreat in the United States as it is democracy progressing along the wrong lines. Our ladividual liberty and freedom of action have gone to seed. We have become so free and so democratic in our ways of doing things, as to become law-breakers and abusers of the public trust authorized under our democratic system of government.

The average American is what you might call a good fellow. He is easy-going. When he worships, he worships fervently; when he swears, he swears with a vini; and no matter what he does, in his estimation it is accordy's business.

We agree with the New York American that we need to constantly go back to the ideals of democracy. Hemocracy is not heense, it is liberty. Hemocracy is not freedom of will, it is re-

Modern Society Smirks at the "Ancient, Outworn Puritanical Traditions"

By DR. ALFRED E. STEARNS, Massachusetts Educator.

Whereas boys of yesterday's generation were reared in homes in which idealism was taught even with a rod, religious beliefs were nurtured, and the inherent parity of woman was a conviction, boys of today are being spiritually demolished by movies, modern literature and modern social life. Modern society smirks at the "ancient, ontworn, l'uritanical traditions of right and wrong."

It forgets that there is only one result when fundamental moral laws are obeyed, only one result when they are disobeyed, whether the talk is about blue laws, loss of personal privilege or what not. Men of society who draw liquor out of hidden places at a public banquet, are doing more in one hour to make Bolshevists and anarchists out of the waiters and attendants than all etreet oratory and pamphlets could in a year.

The magazines which the boys read make fun of the home and of marriage. They make mockery and prudery out of the fine and the pure. The movies are blatant and insistent in their appeal. The boys are aware of it. They are trying, some of them, to clean it up. It is grownup society which is not helping,

Machinery for a Twelve Months' Marketing of Our Annual Production

By EUGENE MEYER, JR., New Finance Corporation.

As a merclimit nation we must study the changing conditions and adjust our merchandizing and financing operations to them. We must recognize the necessity of selling our agricultural products in ire gradually than we did in former years and the corresponding meessity of carrying our commodities for a longer period of marketing. We need the machincry that will make possible a twelve months' marketing

The producers of basic commodities in America, I am convinced, are going to have more to say in the fidure than they had in the past about men. the marketing of their products. They will not be sairs 'ed always to market their products in a lump at harvest time, to be held by others until

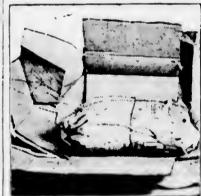

If it can be made possible for the producer, under normal conditions, to market his products gradually there will be many advantages. The tempt to improve their diet, the re-therefore long toiling of vegetables producer will not be compelled to sell his grop at a perficular time without regard to the consuming demand, and the danger of violent fluctuations will be considerably reduced. And nothing would be better for the producer and the consumer-better for the mition as a whole-than to have a comparatively stendy market and steady flow of business.

BUTTER SHIPPED IN SUMMER

Parcel Post Will Prove Entirely Satisfactory if Proper Conditions Are Maintained.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Akribulluce) Parcel post shipments of butter are likely to be subjected to conditions. especially during the summer, which may cause detertoration and Injure the quality of the butter. It is highly desiralde, say specialists of the finited States Department of Agriculture en before shipment. Particularly 18 this true of farm-made intter, because conditions affecting its quality and condition usually cannot be controlled. as easily as in creamerles. Farm made lauter, however, should be mar if you saw the road Mrs. Kindred keted just as satisfactorily as creamery-made butter when it is properly made and prepared for shipment.

It is necessary to nonintula proper conditions to the care of the milk and cream and the making of butter if a marketable product is to be produced. Too much importance, it is said, canact be given to maintaining cleanty conditions in the stable and in other places where the fallk, prestic or lattter are produced or kept, for they ale sorh odors and spoll very quickly. It is important, too, that these products be kept in a cool place. High temperatures should always be avolded, as they produce a soft, only condition of the butter which is undesirable

In manufacturing butter on the farm or in a factory the buttermilk must be removed and washed out, and the proper amount of salt must be locornormted evenly. Frequently parcel post shipments of farm lunter are unsatisfactory to customers because proper methods were not used in making it, and the quality and condition of the butter thereby injured before it was shipped. For the sutisfaction of customers it is important that a uniform quality of latter be produced.

Methods used in preparing latter for pureel just shipping depend largely upon the focal conditions and style of package used. To be a delivery in the best possible state, latter, after being jacked, printed and placed in cartons, should be chilled or hardened thoroughly before it is shipped,

One of the most satisfactory ways of preparing batter for shipment is in regular one-pound prints, the standand print measuring 2% by 2% by 4% inches. Every pound print should be neatly wrapped in regular butter parchaient or paper. A second thickness of such paper has been found to add materially to the carrying possibility of the batter. Waxed paper may he used for the second wrapping. As a further protection to the print, it should be placed in heavy manila parallin curtous, which may be obtalaed from folding paper-box companles, elther plain or printed as a stock enrion or with a special private Corrugated fiber-board shipping contalners of various sizes may be obtained for shipping one-pound prints of butter. These boxes or containers practically insulate the butter and furalsh much protection against heat. Further protection may be obtained by wrapping the container he stont wrapplag paper. The whole should be tled securely with a strong cord in tylag the twine it should be drawn tightly around the package so as to haure its proper carriage.

Some persons ship butter by parcel post is improvised or home-mule conialners. Clean, discarded, corrugated paperhoard eartons are obtained from the grocer or other merchant at amoli cost or frequencyl without any cost at alt. It is possible to cut a piece of paper board in such shape and size that when it is folded it will form a antisfactory carton

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC

l. Jesus Manifests Himself to the 19-25),

He appeared to several of Ilis disclples at several different times during that day. This is the first appearance to the disciples as a body. The runors barred the door. While they were discussing the strange impoenings of the angels abdounced "Pence," Just before he took Ills departure, He said: "Peace I leave with you; my peace I give unto you" (John 14:27); "Let not your heart be troubled" (John 14:1);

1. The discloses' commission (v. 21). the individue, but is obligatory upon hlm. The Lord placed it upon a plane with Ills own commission from the Father-"As my Father hath seat me, so send I you.'

2. The disciples' equipment (v. 22). "He breathed on them, and saith unto them, Receive ye the Holy Ghoat." The mission of the disciple is a very great one, but every one who goes forth in its execution He clothes with the power of a new life by the bestowment of Ills spirit. No one who has this equipment shall ever fall. The Lord's representatives have His life in then. The barrenness of our efforts is due to our failure to take by faith our equipment.

3. The discloles' authority (v. 28). "Whose soever sins ye remlt, they are remltted unto them; and whose soever sins ye retain, they are retained authority was not by virtue of office, but by virtue of having the Holy Ghost. This would give the spiritual discernment to know who had or who had not repented, and consequently, to pronounce pardon or not.

It. Jesus Manifests Himself to the Disciples, Thomas Being Present (vv. 26-29).

Thomas was obsent at the first appearance of Jesus. His absence deprived him of a vision of the Lord. Absence from the assembly of believers always occasions loss. The other disciples go to Thomas at once with the glad news of the resurrection, but be will not believe. His stubbora disbelief is such that be doggedly declares that unless he sees the prints of the nails, etc., he will not believe. It is right to demand evidence, but to prescribe terms is rank unbellef. Note:

1. The Bord's kindness to those who have difficulties. Thomas deserved rebuke, but the Lord kindly supplied the evidence which he demanded.

2. The revention of the Lord transfarms a doubter into a possessor, III. The Conclusion of the Gospel (vv. 30-31).

In these verses John's arguments are summarized, and an explanation is given as to why he wrote this Gospel. Many other things could have been written, but these that he wrote he judged adequate to prove his point: To prove that (1) Jesus of Nazareth was the expected Messlah; (2) that He was divine-the very Son of God; (8) that those who believe on Illin as God's only Sou-the Messich-would receive eternal life. Eternal life is in lilm and only as He is appropriated by faith can mea be saved.

What Christ Saw In World. Christ saw much in this world to weep over, and much to pray over; but He saw nothing in it to look upon with contempt.

Happiness in Our Heart. The happiness that we vainly seek the world over is all the time within us, nestled close to our own hearts,-Bruce Calvert.

We've Been Trying to Lift Ourselves by Our Boot Straps Long Enough

By GEORGE M. REYNOLDS, Chicago Banker,

It is time to tear off the mask of false gavety, half the carnival of extravagance, and get down to brass tacks. We've been trying to lift ourselves by our boot straps long enough.

Combitions in the I'nited States have reached a point where federal reserve assistance and other major influences of tiding over the effects of the World war have been all but exhausted. Individual effort is required to save the situation

The clock has been turned back thirty years. This nation and other nations of the world must realize this fact and go to work as they had to de thirty years ago. All profueering must cease. Protection of labor or any individual class can no longer be obtained by legislation. Those resources have been exhausted.

I am not in favor of lending vast sums of momey to European nations unless we know that the money is to be spent in the upbuilding of industries and the purting of the masses to work and not in false extravigances.
